

The Duff Sale: 2014

Fueled by wine, cheese and high spirits, the duff sale was a gala way to start the holidays. Buyers crowded around a table well stocked with fresh and dried mushrooms (and beautiful tee shirts) supplied by Ben and Mei-Ching Maleson. Larry Millman sold and signed copies of his latest books (that's Larry on the left, chatting with customers), and Jason sold off surplus Club posters and publications. Afterwards, corn was popped and Susan's favorite holiday movie ("Father Frost") was shown.
